

United Way of North Central New Mexico

United Way of North Central New Mexico is working to create greater collaboration and strengthen relationships with the nonprofit community and businesses in Santa Fe County.

These services ensure that individuals and families in Santa Fe County have access to resources.

211 is an information and referral helpline that connects callers with Santa Fe CONNECT. The 211 helpline, and online public resource directory, help support New Mexicans in their search for help with a variety of needs, from housing assistance to mental health resources and much more. By dialing 211, callers in Santa Fe can speak with a CONNECT 211 navigator to get information and referrals to resources in their area. CONNECT is a network of navigators at clinics, community organizations, and city and county programs.

RISING TOGETHER

Rising Together is UWNCNM's work to increase educational attainment and family stability along a cradle-to-career spectrum. When families are stable, they are better able to achieve their educational aspirations. Likewise, educational attainment can foster stability in families and lead to better outcomes in employment, health, etc. Rising Together (formerly Mission: Families and Mission: Graduate) reflects the shared goal that when we come together as a community, every individual and family in central New Mexico will have the support they need to determine their own well-being and success.

The Rising Together areas of focus are:

- Community Resilience
- Healthy Beginnings and School Readiness
- K-12 Learning
- Post High School Readiness
- Adults in Education
